

New catalog for Farfisa

The Italian intercom manufacturer Farfisa in Osimo, on the Adriatic coast, has released a new catalog, containing new products in different categories.

The new catalog is divided according to the different installation systems in their range: the 2-wire Duo system, Duo with online integration, the 2-wire system Pluggy, the mobile 3G Mycom, access control solutions, telephony and systems with traditional cabling.

"We have recently launched a number of new products that are truly innovative in both technology and functionality," says marketing manager Giovanna Fangi.

"They receive extra attention in the catalog. For example, all functions and applications of the new GWIP gateway, which connects the Duo system to the Internet and provides it with many additional options. There is also a lot of information about the XE2922 module, which makes the intercoms controllable with your smartphone via Bluetooth. The new, vandal-resistant product line of Hero door stations is also featured."

"We have tried our hardest to present all information as clearly as possible. We have added many aesthetic photos of each product so that you can see what they look like. There are descriptions, technical data and for each product, it is also stated where on our website you can find the information about it." The new catalog is available in eight languages. ■

